Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Gainesville
Gainesville Veterans for Peace Activities in 2014:

Before the year 2014 began, another well-attended Winter Solstice Concert was held for the first time in a while on the actual solstice, Saturday, December 21st. The volunteers did a great job of running the event which is a great big party that VFP members and their community partners love to attend every year.

January 2014 began with a review of that event and planning VFP events for the new year plus direction of donations from our fundraising at the solstice. About half the money raised goes to fund VFP events, and the other half goes to support local and national progressive organizations. Our mission to affirm “our greater responsibility to serve the cause of world peace” guides us in all these endeavors. VFP was described by one anonymous donor at the solstice concert last year as the Gainesville progressive movement’s United Way.

Locally our donations included The Alachua Labor Party, the Civic Media Center, The Gainesville Iguana, the Samuel Proctor Oral History Program and the Home Van. Nationally we donated to the Manning Defense Fund, Courage to Resist, and Shepherds for Lost Sheep, who provide service dogs for free to veterans. In addition, the Gainesville chapter actively supports the national organization of Vets for Peace by insuring that all our veteran members are able to pay the national dues each year. VFP Gainesville has both members who are veterans and therefore eligible for national membership and supporting members who are not vets but who are welcome as local members. You, too, are welcome to join us!

In February, work began on our next major event, the Peace Poetry Contest, which is open to all school children in Alachua County. Children write poems with the theme of peace, which are judged by UF poetry professor Sidney Ellis and her graduate students. The winners are invited to an event held May 10th this year at the UU church where the children read their poems, musicians play and a reception is held for the families. The poems are published in a book each year and some of them will be read tonight at the Winter Solstice as well. In addition to the poetry contest, VFP offered a peace scholarship and will do so again this year. It will be awarded at the Peace Poetry ceremony in May.

In March, VFP participated in the Penrod Awards given to outstanding community activists each year and Scott Camil spoke about his experiences in the early ’70s with the Gainesville Eight. VFP Members also began to participate in the protests against militarization of drone technology lead by local activist Fay Williams.

In April we got an update from Nancy Shebeneck about the Veterans' Farm sponsored by the Beltram Peace Center. Vets for Peace has supported this project from its beginnings with both funding and advice and technical support. The Farm is a place for Veterans to recharge. It now has a caretaker vet and will be used by the Warrior Institute, a Gainesville organization that provides biofeedback and recreational therapy for veterans. VFP voted in March to donate 1000 dollars to the farm to help improve the buildings. See more about the Farm at their blog at http://shebfl.wordpress.com. Planning also began in earnest for our Memorial Day display on Eighth Avenue.

In May the job pace quickened as we planned for two major events in one month. Peace poetry submissions had been received and the award

Over the last 28 years, Veterans for Peace has recognized people whose service is integral to the work of VFP.

This recognition is acknowledged with the presentation of the Peace Helmet Award.

The award is a beautiful stained glass replica of the VFP symbol of the Dove of Peace on a military helmet.

For the past 28 years, these stained glass Peace Helmets have been created for us exclusively by McIntyre Stained Glass Studio.

We started giving this award out publicly at the Solstice in 2008.

We do not give this award out every year.

This year’s recipients’ names are not printed here in order to keep the award a surprise.

Peace Helmet Award Recipients over the last 28 years:

(We did not have computer records in the beginning so we have done our best to remember all of the recipients.
If you have received this award and are not listed, please let us know, we apologize.)

This year, Veterans for Peace organized the Fifth Annual Peace Poetry Contest, inviting all students in Alachua County schools to submit poems based on what peace means to them. We received more poetry submissions than any previous year of the contest — approximately 400 entries. A panel of English graduate students at the University of Florida (Elaina Mercatoris, Erin Jones, Tara Tatum, Sam Grenrock and Paulette Bane), led by Dr. Sidney Wade, judged the entries based on their message and creativity, and issued first, second and third place awards by age group (ranging from kindergarten to twelfth grade). The 21 winning poems and honorable mentions were published in the 2014 Peace Poetry Contest booklet, and poets were invited to share their poems aloud at the Peace Poetry Reading held at the end of the school year at the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

Vets for Peace believes that poetry is a prime and meaningful medium for creating a “culture of peace.” Because of this, we believe the Peace Poetry Contest provides a positive avenue for children and young people to share feelings and craft their words creatively.

Overall, the event was a great success, bringing in very diverse poems from students of many different backgrounds. We received great feedback from the parents, students and teachers who participated in this year’s contest.

If you know a student who would like to submit a poem to the 2015 Peace Poetry Contest, email vfppeacepoetrycontest@gmail.com for more information. We will publicly announce the contest to all schools, teachers, and administrators in Alachua County in early February.

We are also looking for volunteers to help with the orchestration of the contest, particularly with publicizing the call for poems and designing the Peace Poetry book and certificates.

If you’d like to get involved, email vfppeacepoetrycontest@gmail.com.

A Change

Fathers and brothers,
Sisters and mothers,
Husband and wife,
All of these people living a normal life.
They laugh and smile like everyone else,
But what they buy our country, no store sells.
One day war has been declared,
The faces of these people are definitely not scared.
The camouflage uniform is worn with pride,
Soldiers put their own life on the line.
The call for war has begun,
Songs of victory have been sung.
Missiles and bullets find their mark,
Dust and smoke color the field dark.
Many have fallen, many suffer from wounds,
Bloodied faces do not hide their gloom.
War hangs in the air like an overcast sky,
When war occurs, people ask why.
Why wage war when you can befriend each other?
The problem today is that we think we don’t need one another.
We all see the flaws that others possess,
But we all don’t notice we cause each other distress.
If we all could combine and unite,
What would be the use to fight?
Great people have been lost to war,
So why do we have the hunger for more?
Countless rulers and presidents have passed,
Yet peace is not showing signs of coming fast.
Nonviolence is just a theory today,
But rather violence is the largest obstacle in our way.
We don’t realize what war does to us,
How it corrupts us,
How it changes us,
How it makes us hate each other.
We see innocent people killed because of beliefs,
Everyone involved never receiving relief.
Countless people have been symbols of peace,
But when will these conflicts ever cease?
The day we see the person next to us and see how beautiful humans are,
The day we see how war gives scars,
The day we see that peace isn’t far,
Is the day that defines who humans are.

2014 was the eighth year of the Veterans for Peace Memorial Day project known as Memorial Mile. The display consists of tombstones bearing the name, date of death, age, rank, and hometown of the American service-men and -women who have died due to the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. The display is set up in Gainesville along NW 8th Ave. It runs east from 34th Street for one mile, then crosses to the north side of the road and runs west back toward 34th Street. When we started this project in 2007, we did not think that we would still be involved in these wars today. In 2009, we ran out of room on the south side of the road and that is why we crossed to the north side and have started west.

In 2013, the City of Gainesville decided to test narrowing of this small section of NW 8th Ave., with the intention of evaluating the impact on traffic flow and safety. We supported this calmer plan to narrow the 3/4 mile stretch. The Gainesville City Commission voted on December 4th, 2014 to 4-lane NW 8th Avenue between 34th St and 23rd St. with a new design that will take away the grass median strip between the sidewalk and road that we have used since 2007 to erect our Memorial Day weekend tombstone display.

We picked 8th Avenue as our Memorial Mile for several reasons. We were looking for a place that was about 1 mile long, not in front of peoples' homes, with no side streets cutting through the display. We needed a grass median at least 36 inches wide. We needed parking and use of bathrooms. Westside Park is perfect. It is easy for walkers to come back to the park to rest. We get a good amount of traffic on 8th Ave.

This area is a park environment and was meant to be so. It has Westside Park, Loblolly Woods and Hogtown Creek. The two schools, Littlewood Elementary School and Westwood Middle School, are further reasons to make this a slow traffic area to protect our children.

Mayor Braddy and Commissioners Hinson-Rawls, Chase, and Carter, decided that this 3/4 mile strip needed to be 4 lanes. They used the argument that 4-laning 8th Ave. and reducing the speed limit would be safer than 2 lanes. In my experience, when you add lanes to a road, it increases the speed on that road. Four lanes also makes it harder for people to cross the street, especially at 31st St.

The real reason that the mayor and the majority of the commission wanted to go back to 4 lanes had nothing to do with safety, it was purely political, it was a message to their tea party supporters that they were now in control of the city commission. They envision a future Gainesville that looks more like Orlando than Gainesville - all asphalt and cement.

We are greatly disappointed. We thank Commissioners Poe, Warren and Wells for trying to preserve the calmer 2-lane plan that would have left the grass median which we use for the tombstones.

The mayor also said that work toward a 4-lane configuration should be started immediately and that the rest of the work will begin in May. I called the City manager to find out if we would be able to have one more year or if the work in May will stop us from getting a permit for the display. On the 11th of December, I received an e-mail from Teresa Scott, Director of Public Works for Gainesville. In the e-mail she said, “Construction will not begin on NW 8th Avenue until sometime after the Memorial Day weekend; possibly mid-summer 2015. So, I see no reason why you cannot continue with the Tombstone Display for Memorial weekend in May 2015.” So as it now stands, Memorial Day weekend 2015 will be the last year that we have our display on NW 8th Ave.

The purpose of this display is to give the American public a graphic display of the cost of the US wars in Iraq and Afghanistan as measured by the deaths of American military personnel.

The display has two parts. The main part is the tombstones, which are displayed by theater of war and date of death. We have books at both ends of the display that allow us to help people find the tombstones of the loved ones they are looking for. The second part of the display is a set of panels that show the cost of these two wars in human lives, dollar amounts, and lost opportunities.

This chart shows how many tombstones we have erected each year starting in 2007. Each of these tombstones represents a service person wearing an American uniform.

Please keep in mind that the above yearly numbers are from Memorial Day to Memorial Day.

As of this printing, there are 6,834 total tombstones: 2,351 from Afghanistan and 4,483 from Iraq.

When you visit our display, you will see that some of the tombstones have flags on them. We started marking local tombstones with flags so they would be easier to find. We now also put flags on all tombstones that we know have been visited. Currently, there are 386 tombstones marked by flags.

Veterans for Peace is very grateful to the volunteers who help us set up the display, nurture it, and take it down. This year, we finished cleaning and repairing the tombstones in July. At the current rate of deaths, which is 8 service members per month, we will need to build 96 tombstones for Memorial Day 2015.

We will start building them in March. Each year we add a new four-person team to manage the new tombstones. Would you like to volunteer?

2013, was the first year of no deaths in Iraq and we were hoping for a trend. Unfortunately two American Marines have died so far this year in Iraq.

Under Bush (8 years), 4,221 American military personnel were killed in Iraq. So far under Obama (6 years), 262 American military personnel have been killed in Iraq.

In Afghanistan, because of Obama’s escalation, the number of American military personnel who have been killed has gone up. Under Bush (8 years), 630 American military personnel were killed in Afghanistan. So far under Obama (6 years), 1,678 American military personnel have been killed.

There is a new open-ended U.S.-Afghan security deal committing thousands of American military personnel and billions of US taxpayer dollars indefinitely. Our troops will not all be coming home in 2014. The agreement calls for continued US military operations to defeat al-Qaeda and its affiliates.

WASHINGTON — President Obama decided in recent weeks to authorize a more expansive mission for the military in Afghanistan in 2015 than originally planned, a move that ensures American troops

Mr. Obama’s order allows American forces to carry out missions against the Taliban and other militant groups threatening American troops or the Afghan government, a broader mission than the president described to the public earlier this year, according to several administration, military and congressional officials with knowledge of the decision. The new authorization also allows American jets, bombers and drones to support Afghan troops on combat missions. (NYT 11-21-14)

The John A. Penrod “Brigadas” Award for Peace and Justice

International Brigade, Spanish Civil War (1936-1937)

by Jessica Newman

In 2008, three progressive groups created an annual award to honor the legacy of John A. “Jack” Penrod, who dedicated his life to the fight of the people for dignity, freedom and a democratic, peaceful society.

Gainesville Veterans for Peace, the Alachua County Labor Party and the United Faculty of Florida wanted to honor activists in the local community for their long-haul track record of consistent, responsible movement work.

The award refers to the “Brigadas,” the International Brigades that Jack Penrod fought with during the Spanish Civil War (1936–1939), along with 32,000-plus other volunteer soldiers from around the world. The Brigadistas defended Spanish democracy against the fascist invasion led by General Francisco Franco and supported by Nazi Germany and Italy, in what many consider the prelude to World War II.

In his day, Jack Penrod worked with the Steel Workers Organizing Committee and helped organize the first faculty union at UF, United Faculty of Florida. He was a member of Veterans for Peace and a vocal opponent of the Iraq War; he helped found the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship, worked closely with the National Organization for Women and Gainesville Women’s Liberation, and also dedicated time to the Alachua County Labor Party.

Jack devoted his life to peace and justice, and he didn’t stop until his death in 2008 at the age of 94.

Last year, the award went to two recipients who each received $1000 — Robbie Czopek and Jeremiah Tattersall. Robbie co-founded the Food Not Bombs chapter in St. Augustine before moving to Gainesville, where he organized with Gainesville Industrial Workers of the World and the Civic Media Center (CMC). As CMC co-coordinator, Robbie played a pivotal role in shaping the face and direction of the CMC in its then-new location, and continued to ensure the success of this community treasure as a sole coordinator through the fall of this year, before he moved out West.

Jeremiah Tattersall has been active in numerous radical movements including Students for a Democratic Society and the Coalition of Immokalee Workers. He was a key leader in the task force that led to the historic Wage Recovery Ordinance in Alachua County, protecting workers from stolen and withheld wages. Jeremiah continues his track record of labor activism as a coordinator for the AFL-CIO, promoting community involvement as well as organizing graduate students and faculty in UFF — the faculty union that Jack helped found.

Your donations are requested to help fund the Penrod Award. This important work needs our financial backing to enable our activists to keep fighting for all of us. Please stop by the Veterans for Peace table at the Winter Solstice, or send your donation to:

“Hearts starve as well as bodies; give us bread, but give us roses.”

James Oppenheim, “Bread and Roses”

Garden Angels, inc. is a not-for-profit (501c3) corporation whose purpose is to use horticultural therapy for mental and physical healing working with Veterans suffering from PTSD and other disabilities. Our headquarters is located in Alachua, Florida. We raise funds for the non-profit through donations, grants, and our wholesale rose company entitled “The Old Garden Rose Co.” The proceeds from the sale of these easy-care, organically-grown roses go to support and help sustain our programs.

While the healing power of the Rose is pervasive in how it touches nearly every part of a person, perhaps the most remarkable aspects of this flower are found in its ability to affect the heart and spirit. Long praised for its antidepressant qualities and ability to open the heart, it has been used across the world to raise the spirits and heal broken hearts. An amazingly uplifting herb, it is often used as an antidepressant / anti-anxiety agent. It has a profound opening effect on the heart and is a deeply nourishing tonic for the nerves. It is equally as effective when working with the plant itself.

I cannot think of any past time more healing than growing roses. There is something absolutely enchanting about this species because it holds the place of the highest form of being that the plant kingdom has to offer. Roses respond quickly to nurturing and they let us know how they are feeling, giving us back many times the love we bestow upon them, adding healing vibrations of the highest electrical frequency known in the plant kingdom (320MHz). Thus we are able to raise our own vibration into a healing state from being with roses. We are working with all phases of rose growing from cuttings.

I refuse to live in a country like this, and I'm not leaving.

— Michael Moore
An exciting part of our program involves hybridizing (breeding) roses. Seed grown from any hybrid rose that is not a Species rose will always be a new rose different from the parent just as our children are not clones of ourselves. Any of the new seedlings that show promise may be registered, duplicated and named after a loved one or in the case of Veterans, a fallen comrade. We will begin with developing a new rose to honor each of the 5 men lost in the Battle of Alpha North as well as a rose named for Alpha North.

“To create a little flower is the labour of ages.”
William Blake (1757- 1827)

Pamela and James Greenewald of Angel Gardens are the founders of Garden Angels.
In addition to growing roses they will also be teaching Aquaponics to Veterans.

Development: “Turning it all around backwards”

Bobby Billie during 1994 Walk For The Earth

People say they care about the future, but it’s not true. They’re thinking about the money, how they are going to live in a good house and an easy life. It’s not real. It’s all in a dream. It’s not going to be like that forever. It’s all going to turn around.

If you dig down two or three feet down into the earth you go back maybe a thousand years. You dig into the earth you dig up the past, and build house up on top of the earth you dig up. All this digging that’s what we’re doing, turning our Mother backwards into her old age.

The Elders tell us you see a dry spot on your skin where you did not take care of it. Some of the Earth is now desert because years ago it was abused. The whole earth is going to be desert. Now there are just a few areas left. You see the other planet in space and it’s all desert. Someday another planet will look at us and we will be all desert.

If we are going to live in a new way, we should leave the earth alone so that life can continue and the earth can continue to support us. But the bigger house one after another, the bigger machine, the money is not going to do anything for us. Only the earth can do something for us, the trees and water and air.

We all get a right heart and mind if we walk together so we can come together for the future.

That is my vision. All of us have visions. We come together, we walk together, we share what we know and what we have. The message comes to us all the time every day. Put it together and bring it out and you have a good message we call love and care for the whole people and for all the creation of the earth.

When we come to the balance of the mind we can leave some things alone. We can control our minds, what we see, what we hear. You cannot blame the tobacco, it’s not the leaf. It’s not the water, not the food, it’s not the creator. We are the ones killing ourselves. It’s the people.

Look ahead every time you make a step.

I don’t believe in optimism. I believe in optimal behavior. That’s a different thing . . .

Action is hope. At the end of each day, when you’ve done your work, you lie there and think, Well, I’ll be damned, I did this today. It doesn’t matter how good it is, or how bad – you did it. At the end of the week you’ll have a certain amount of accumulation. At the end of a year, you look back and say, I’ll be damned, it’s been a good year.

— Ray Bradbury
The Plum Creek real estate investment trust has reportedly burned through more than $10 million over the past three years on a public relations campaign to orchestrate support for their proposal to build a sprawling new city on their timberlands in rural eastern Alachua County. That money has bought Plum Creek a large professional staff; hundreds of public presentations; countless individual lobbying meetings with leaders in local government, business, and nonprofit communities; a carefully screened and managed “citizen task force” to rubber-stamp their proposal; lavish contributions to local charitable organizations; nonstop advertising, and the docile media coverage it buys; and the obligatory yard-signs and free T-shirts.

Despite all this (or perhaps because of it), several recent opinion polls indicate it isn’t working. The advertising mythology created by Plum Creek runs something like this: Plum Creek’s extensive land holdings and corporate resources have enabled them to develop a plan for the future development of eastern Alachua County that will result in “smarter growth” and enhanced environmental protection. Unjust economic imbalance between west and east will be redressed, good-paying jobs will be made available to relatively unskilled workers, and historically down-trodden east Gainesville will be rejuvenated.

These claims are easily refuted, point by point. A superior, publicly vetted blueprint for the future growth of our community already exists: the Alachua County Comprehensive Plan. The environmental consequences of Plum Creek’s development plans will be disastrous, and the land they promise to “conserve” is, in fact, largely undevelopable or already under permanent conservation easement. Their proposed development is 10-15 miles from east Gainesville, and will drain investment away from all parts of the city, as sprawl always does. And despite Plum Creek’s overt race-baiting, this issue has nothing to do with civil rights or economic justice.

Peel away the advertising, and Plum Creek’s proposal is just traditional land speculation on a grand scale. It serves only the interests of their shareholders. Our community can do better.

What’s next? After exhaustive review, Alachua County staff recently issued a robust recommendation of denial for Plum Creek’s application, citing numerous concerns with environmental impacts, poorly planned growth, provision of public services, and a general lack of data and analysis to support Plum Creek’s claims.

Usually, the next step would be for the application to go to public hearings, first with an advisory Planning Commission, then the Alachua County Commission. Instead, Plum Creek has promised to overhaul their application and resubmit it early next year. Staff will then review it once again, and issue another recommendation.

A citizen organization, Stand By Our Plan, has played a vital role in organizing people, raising awareness of the county’s Comprehensive Plan, bringing the issue to the forefront of local elections, and watch-dogging Plum Creek’s claims and activities. Visit our website at StandByOurPlan.org to learn more, and to get involved.

When plunder becomes a way of life for a group of men living in society, they create for themselves, in the course of time, a legal system that authorizes it and a moral code that glorifies it.

In America, if you want a successful career in politics, there is one subject you must never mention, and that is politics. If you talk about standing tall, and it's morning in America, and you press the good-news buttons, you're fine. If you talk about budgets, tax reform, bigotry, and so on, you are in trouble. So if we aren't going to talk issues, what can we talk about? Well, the sex lives of the candidates, because that is about the most meaningless thing that you can talk about.

Black, white, Chinese,
Vegans, locivores,
folks selling barbecue
From backs of trucks on country roads.
May we have compassion,
For doctors and dentists and hookers,
And chief financial officers,
For gated communities and homeless shelters,
For law enforcement officers, for thieves,
For all who breathe the free air around us,
For all who feel the sun and rain on their weary backs.
May there be candles,
Menorah candles,
Kwanzaa candles,
Christmas candles,
Candles adding their soft light
To the gentle beams of the Solstice moon.
May there be light,
May there be peace,
May we love one another.

Season’s Greetings from the members of Move To Amend, Gainesville! As we take a break from the hectic election cycle, leading up to the recent November election, it gives us time to reflect on how we got to where we are, and where we go from here.

First of all, we would like to thank all of you who made Alachua County Question # 2, the “corporate personhood” and “money as speech” issue, such a resounding success. The victory, by a nearly 72% to 28% margin, shows broad, bipartisan support for changing the way we elect our representatives. This is the only way we can change the direction our country is headed, and we need the continued help and support of people of all political stripes. A Constitutional amendment to insure the sovereignty of the American people is the only remedy left to us.

The margin of victory on our local straw ballot, however, only points up the disconnect between our national leadership, and the will of “We, the People.” In a recent vote in the US Senate, to show support for overturning the Supreme Court’s “Citizens United” decision, every Democrat and Independent voted for the measure, while every Republican voted against it. Locally, principled conservatives recognized the corruption of our Federal electoral process and the need for reform, and yet their leadership in Congress was united in opposition to reform, because those lawmakers actually represent corporate interests, instead of those of the voting public. When those legislators are successful in helping corporate interests to win, it is “We, the People”, and our Republic, that suffer.

And so, our task has been laid out for us. We must build a coalition of educated, involved citizens that will ultimately influence our State legislature to join with the 16 other states that have united to ask for a Constitutional amendment. By the time you’re reading this, an amazing 81 year-old woman, Rhana Bazzini (ingrannydfoosteps.org) will have completed a 400-mile walk from Sarasota to Tallahassee. She is emulating Doris “Granny D” Haddock, who, at age 89, had previously crossed the entire country from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C. in 14 months (1999-2000). Both these arduous walks were designed to call attention to campaign finance reform. This should give all of us reason to reflect just how actively we need to fight for this cause, because, if our Republic is to survive, failure is not an option. So get involved, spread the word, and make a difference!

Best wishes for peace in the New Year,

We believe that an understanding point of view and acceptance

Post-1980 America is a land in which it is impossible to engage in a discussion about a System with college-aged people without inevitably and almost immediately devolving into mini-soliloquies on Good and Bad choices. Why have so many kids? Why did he start drinking? And they signed a contract without reading the whole thing! Everyone knows not to do that. This is what I mean when I describe college students, when I'm forced to generalize, as extremely conservative. They aren't necessarily hardcore political conservatives in the context of Washington politics, but they have thoroughly internalized the message that their parents and the media have been hammering them with since birth: everything that happens to you is your fault.

2015 Peace Scholarships for Alachua County Students

by Paul Ortiz

Gainesville Veterans for Peace Chapter 14 announces its annual Peace Scholarships for the spring of 2015. We are awarding two scholarships of $500 for high school seniors, college students, or adults with demonstrated commitment and leadership in activities involving: peace & social justice, conflict resolution and/or nonviolent social change.

Our chapter is creating these scholarships as a way to give financial support to students who are following dreams and planning careers in pursuit of a world of social justice and peace. While we often say that “Another World Is Possible,” we must provide tangible alternatives in a society that is based on funding war and state violence.

As a veterans’ organization, we recognize that for many individuals, military service is a matter of economic security and the only pathway available for working class students in pursuit of a college education. By creating this scholarship, Veterans for Peace is attempting to follow the example of 2014 Nobel Peace Laureate Malala Yousafzai, who has recently urged the US to end wars and to refocus on education as a tool of economic justice and peace.

Please help Gainesville Veterans for Peace spread the word about this new scholarship program! To be eligible to apply for the Peace Scholarship, the applicant must either be: 1) a high school senior planning to enroll in full-time undergraduate study at an accredited two- or four-year college, university or vocational-technical school in the United States for the 2015-2016 academic year; or: 2) a college student currently enrolled and in good standing; or: 3) an adult student enrolling in higher education who needs financial assistance.

Peace Scholarship applicants will also be asked to provide a brief autobiographical statement and evidence of leadership and/or involvement: peace & social justice, conflict resolution and/or nonviolent social change.

Either the United States will destroy ignorance or ignorance will destroy the United States.

— W.E.B. Du Bois
personal initiative in activities in an organization (including volunteer or paid work) relating to peace and social justice, conflict resolution and/or nonviolent social change. Applicants will also need to provide two letters of recommendation.

PEACE SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATION DEADLINE

The application (PDF file) must be downloaded from the Gainesville Veterans for Peace website, printed out, completed and postal mailed to the address on the application. We will start accepting applications on March 1, 2015. The deadline for the scholarship application is April 2, 2015.

Peace Scholarship recipients will be announced at the Gainesville VFP Peace Poetry Awards Ceremony in mid-May. For questions, contact Paul Ortiz at: ortizprof@gmail.com or 352-373-3435.

The full announcement and instructions for applying may be found on our web site, at www.vfpgainesville.org.
During World War I, on and around Christmas Day 1914, the sounds of rifles firing and shells exploding faded in a number of places along the Western Front in favor of holiday celebrations in the trenches and gestures of goodwill between enemies.

On Christmas Eve, many German and British troops sang Christmas carols to each other across the lines, and at certain points the Allied soldiers even heard brass bands joining the Germans in their joyous singing.

At the first light of dawn on Christmas Day, some German soldiers emerged from their trenches and approached the Allied lines across no-man's-land, calling out "Merry Christmas" in their enemies' native tongues. At first, the Allied soldiers feared it was a trick, but seeing the Germans unarmed they climbed out of their trenches and shook hands with the enemy soldiers. The men exchanged presents of cigarettes.

As children, we have imaginary friends. We grow up and we replace them with imaginary enemies.

— Patrick Hardin
and plum puddings and sang carols and songs. There was even a documented case of soldiers from opposing sides playing a good-natured game of soccer.

Some soldiers used this short-lived ceasefire for a more somber task: the retrieval of the bodies of fellow combatants who had fallen within the no-man’s land between the lines.

The so-called Christmas Truce of 1914 came only five months after the outbreak of war in Europe and was one of the last examples of the outdated notion of chivalry between enemies in warfare. It was never repeated—future attempts at holiday ceasefires were quashed by officers’ threats of disciplinary action—but it served as heartening proof, however brief, that beneath the brutal clash of weapons, the soldiers’ essential humanity endured.

During World War I, the soldiers on the Western Front did not expect to celebrate on the battlefield, but even a world war could not destroy the Christmas spirit.

WE CAN WORK IT OUT

Lennon/McCartney

Try to see it my way,
Do I have to keep on talking till I can’t go on?
While you see it your way,
Run the risk of knowing that our love may soon be gone.

We can work it out,
We can work it out.

Think of what you’re saying.
You can get it wrong and still you think that it’s all right.
Think of what I’m saying,
We can work it out and get it straight, or say good night.

We can work it out,
We can work it out.

Life is very short, and there’s no time
For fussing and fighting, my friend.
I have always thought that it’s a crime,
So I will ask you once again.

Try to see it my way,
Only time will tell if I am right or I am wrong.
While you see it your way
There’s a chance that we might fall apart before too long.

We can work it out,
We can work it out.

IMAGINE

John Lennon

Imagine there’s no heaven
It’s easy if you try
No hell below us
Above us only sky
Imagine all the people living for today
Imagine there’s no countries
It isn’t hard to do
Nothing to kill or die for
And no religion too
Imagine all the people living life in peace

Chorus:
You may say I’m a dreamer
But I’m not the only one
I hope someday you’ll join us
And the world will be as one

Imagine no possessions
I wonder if you can
No need for greed or hunger
A brotherhood of man
Imagine all the people sharing all the world

Chorus

PEACE TRAIN
Cat Stevens

Now I’ve been happy lately,
Thinking about the good things to come
And I believe it could be,
Something good has begun

Oh I’ve been smiling lately,
Dreaming about the world as one
And I believe it could be,
Someday it’s going to come

Cause out on the edge of darkness,
There rides a peace train
Oh peace train take this country,
Come take me home again

Now I’ve been smiling lately,
Thinking about the good things to come
And I believe it could be,
Something good has begun

Oh peace train sounding louder
Glide on the peace train
Come on now peace train
Yes, peace train holy roller

Everyone jump upon the peace train
Come on now peace train

Get your bags together,
Go bring your good friends too
Cause it’s getting nearer,
It soon will be with you

Now come and join the living,
It’s not so far from you
And it’s getting nearer,
Soon it will all be true

HERE COMES THE SUN
George Harrison

Here comes the sun, here comes the sun
And I say it’s all right
Little darlin’ it’s been a long cold lonely winter
Little darlin’ it feels like years since it’s been here
Here comes the sun, here comes the sun
And I say it’s all right
Little darlin’ the smiles returning to their faces
Little darlin’ it seems like years since it’s been here
Here comes the sun, here comes the sun
And I say it’s all right
Sun, sun, sun, here it comes
Sun, sun, sun, here it comes
Sun, sun, sun, here it comes
Sun, sun, sun, here it comes
Little darlin’ I feel the ice is slowly meltin’
Little darlin’ it seems like years since it’s been clear
Here comes the sun, here comes the sun
And I say it’s all right
Here comes the sun, here comes the sun
It’s all right, it’s all right

Now I’ve been crying lately,
Thinking about the world as it is
Why must we go on hating,
Why can’t we live in bliss

Cause out on the edge of darkness,
There rides a peace train
Oh peace train take this country,
Come take me home again

EVERYDAY PEOPLE

Sylvester Stewart

Sometimes I'm right and I can be wrong
My own beliefs are in my song
The butcher, the banker, the drummer and then Makes no difference what group I'm in
I am everyday people, yeah, yeah

There is a blue one
Who can't accept the green one
For living with a fat one
Trying to be a skinny one
Different strokes
For different folks

And so on and so on
And scooby dooby dooby
Oh sha sha
We got to live together

I am no better and neither are you
We are the same, whatever we do
You love me, you hate me, you know me and then
You can't figure out the bag I'm in
I am everyday people, yeah yeah

There is a long hair
That doesn't like the short hair
For being such a rich one
That will not help the poor one
Different strokes
For different folks

And so on and so on
And scooby dooby dooby
Oh sha sha
We got to live together

There is a yellow one
That won't accept the black one
That won't accept the red one
That won't accept the white one
Different strokes
For different folks

And so on and so on
And scooby dooby dooby
Oh sha sha
I am everyday people

This is the spirit of 270!
270 is a gift, 40 acres of pristine Florida hammock forest, given to Emmanuel Mennonite Church in Gainesville, FL, by Fred Beltram.

270’s primary goal is conservation.
Their partner, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, is writing a land management plan, mapping trails, and offering guidelines to help preserve this spectacular piece of property.

270’s secondary goal is service, particularly service to veterans.
This is happening in two ways:
• A veteran will live on the property and be a presence.
• 270 will be partnering with local organizations, like the Warrior Institute, who provide healing opportunities through recreational therapy and biofeedback.

270 envelops all who enter with the peace that only nature can bring.
270 is about creation care and service, healing and hope.

A man in a suit and tie with badges showing he’s a veteran knocks on the door. With a slip in his hand he tells my mother something. Sadness fills me suddenly. I know something, that I don’t. I see a tear drip down my mother’s face, and the man leaves. She turns around and mumbles. She looks at me, sadness in her eyes. She tells me my dad, the dad I played ring-around-the-rosy with, was shot and in the hospital. I immediately ask when I can see him. She answers, “Now, we’ll see him now.”

As we drive, I sob a bit, but I keep quiet. I don’t want to upset my mother more and make her cry. I hate seeing her cry. When we reach the hospital, we go in. My mother asks the nurse in the red and white cap where my dad is. When I see him, he’s hooked up to wires and monitors, but he is alive and the war is over, so I have peace.

Larry [Summers] leaned back in his chair and offered me some advice. ... He teed it up this way: I had a choice. I could be an insider or I could be an outsider. Outsiders can say whatever they want. But people on the inside don’t listen to them. Insiders, however, get lots of access and a chance to push their ideas. People — powerful people — listen to what they have to say. But insiders also understand one unbreakable rule. They don’t criticize other insiders.

On December 9th, the United States Senate Select Committee on Intelligence released a 525-page portion of the 6,700 page report on the CIA’s detention and interrogation programs under President George W. Bush. The report is commonly known as the CIA Torture Report. The report consisted of key findings and an executive summary of the full report. The rest of the report remains classified.

References to Britain’s intelligence agencies were deleted at their request from the report. It is clear that the report was sanitized to conceal the way US allies became involved in the global kidnap and torture program. There is no reference at all of the British territory of Diego Garcia, used by the US as a military base.

The report paints a portrait of the CIA as an agency gone rogue. It, along with two private contractors, skirted congressional oversight by lying about the severity of the torture techniques being employed, and the value of the information that was gathered in the process.

In an introduction to the release, Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA), the chair of the Senate Intelligence Committee, writes that the detention and interrogation program was conducted in “violation of US law, treaty obligations and our values.” She adds: “it is my personal conclusion that, under any common meaning of the term, CIA detainees were tortured. I also believe that the conditions of confinement and the use of authorized and unauthorized interrogation and conditioning techniques were cruel, inhuman and degrading. I believe the evidence of this is overwhelming and incontrovertible.”

A quick overview of what the report contains can be found in the Senate Intelligence Committee’s 20 findings:

#1: The CIA’s use of its enhanced interrogation techniques was not an effective means of acquiring intelligence or gaining cooperation from detainees.

#2: The CIA’s justification for the use of its enhanced interrogation techniques rested on inaccurate claims of their effectiveness.

#3: The interrogations of CIA detainees were brutal and far worse than the CIA represented to policymakers and others.

#4: The conditions of confinement for CIA detainees were harsher than the CIA had represented to policymakers and others.

#5: The CIA repeatedly provided inaccurate information to the Department of Justice, impeding a proper legal analysis of the CIA’s Detention and Interrogation Program.

#6: The CIA has actively avoided or impeded congressional oversight of the program.

#7: The CIA impeded effective White House oversight and decision-making.

#8: The CIA’s operation and management of the program complicated, and in some activities, and systemic and individual management failures.

#18: The CIA marginalized and ignored numerous internal critiques, criticisms, and objections concerning the operation and management of the CIA’s Detention and Interrogation Program.

#19: The CIA’s Detention and Interrogation Program was inherently unsustainable and had effectively ended by 2006 due to unauthorized press disclosures, reduced cooperation from other nations, and legal and oversight concerns.

#20: The CIA’s Detention and Interrogation Program damaged the United States’ standing in the world, and resulted in other significant monetary and non-monetary costs.

What we have learned is that the CIA routinely lied to Congress and the Executive Branch. There is no real oversight of the CIA.

The CIA deployed the so-called “enhanced interrogation techniques” in a “near non-stop fashion for days or weeks at a time.”

Prisoners including those known to be innocent were tortured.

The response from the right has been to try to make this into a partisan issue. Crimes committed by our government are crimes regardless of which party was in charge and regardless of which party is making the report public.

These crimes are in violation of international law. All of the perpetrators should be turned over to the international criminal court for trial and punishment. We cannot expect our government to really do anything to change the behavior of the CIA. There was no real secret that this was going on and it was done with a wink and nod of those in charge of oversight.

The bad thing about war is that it creates more evil men than it carries away.

— Immanuel Kant
When Obama took office, many of us who were ready and waiting for all of that “Hope and Change” were deeply disappointed when Obama said, in regard to the Bush/Cheney crimes, that we would not look back, that we would look forward. Right from the start, Obama started covering up for Bush/Cheney. Presidents don’t go after their predecessors because they want to be able to have unlimited power also.

In August of 2012, the US Justice Department announced it had ended its investigation into CIA interrogations of terrorist detainees without bringing criminal charges. The approach taken in the inquiry was not to prosecute anyone who acted in good faith and within the scope of the legal guidance given by the Justice Department’s Office of Legal Counsel regarding the interrogation of detainees.

It was Alberto Gonzales, Bush’s General Counsel during his governorship of Texas and then Bush’s Attorney General, who oversaw President Bush’s Office of Legal Counsel. On August 1, 2002, the OLC produced the Bybee memos, a document that provided the legal framework by which previous interpretations of the Geneva Convention and the United Nations Convention Against Torture were modified to expand presidential authority to enable Enhanced Interrogation Techniques. The memo was produced in response to a specific CIA request for clarification of the standards of interrogation under U.S. law.

Alberto Gonzales is currently the Dean of Belmont University College of Law, in Nashville, Tennessee, where he teaches Constitutional Law, Separation of Powers, National Security Law, and First Amendment Law. Belmont University is the largest Christian university in Tennessee.

The Bybee memos, commonly called the torture memos, refer to a set of legal memoranda drafted by John Yoo as Deputy Assistant Attorney General of the United States and signed in August 2002 by Assistant Attorney General Jay S. Bybee, head of the Office of Legal Counsel. They advised the Central Intelligence Agency, the United States Department of Defense, and the President on the use of enhanced interrogation techniques: mental and physical torment and coercion such as prolonged sleep deprivation, binding in stress positions, and waterboarding, and stated that such acts, widely regarded as torture, might be legally permissible under an expansive interpretation of presidential authority during the “War on Terror.”

John Yoo is currently a Professor of Law at the University of California, Berkeley.

What we see is that at the highest levels of our government crimes go unpunished and those who helped justify those crimes get to teach law to those who will become lawyers themselves. What a terrible cycle of immorality and precedents.

After WWII, we punished German and Japanese officials for war crimes. We set international precedents. Under the Nuremberg principles, starting a war is the worst of all war crimes because all other war crimes stem from it. The Nuremberg principles also stated that following orders is not a defense for war crimes.

I think that the precedents set at Nuremberg allowed those with the power to punish those without power and not be held accountable themselves.

When I was a child my grandmother told me stories of our relatives that died in Hitler’s concentration camps. I asked, “Where were the people, how did they allow this to take place?” She said that some people were cowed by fear and others were too patriotic to stand up to the government.

Now I ask us, “How did we allow this to happen and what are we going to do about it?”

The past is rich in lessons from which we would greatly profit except that the present is always so full of Special Circumstances.

Whistleblowers Update

by Scott Camil

I think of the American government as public employees. That makes us, the public, the employers. I can think of no place besides the government where the employees get to hide what they are really doing from their employers.

How can we, the public, manage our employees if they can hide all of their dirt from us? We can’t. This is why it is so important to support the courageous whistle blowers. There are many and I will just touch on a few of them. They are our unsung heroes and we must support them. Veterans For Peace salutes them.

Samuel Provance, United States Army

System administrator for U.S. Army Military Intelligence at the Abu Ghraib prison who publicly revealed the role of interrogators in the abuses, as well the general effort to cover-up the Abu Ghraib prisoner abuse itself.

On September 10, 2013, photographer Jo Metson Scott published the book, The Grey Line, which documents “the perspective of US and UK soldiers who have spoken out against the Iraq War.” Provance is featured on the front cover, and a synopsis of his story is in the book.

Thomas Andrews Drake, National Security Agency

Thomas Drake worked at the NSA in various analyst and management positions. He blew the whistle on the NSA’s Trailblazer project that he felt was a violation of the Fourth Amendment and other laws and regulations. He contacted The Baltimore Sun, which published articles about waste, fraud, and abuse at the NSA, including stories about Trailblazer. In April 2010, Drake was indicted by a grand jury on various charges, including obstructing justice and making false statements. After the May 22, 2011 broadcast of a 60 Minutes episode on the Drake case, the government dropped all of the charges against Drake and agreed not to seek any jail time in return for Drake’s agreement to plead guilty to a misdemeanor of misusing the agency’s computer system. Drake was sentenced to one year of probation and community service.

On July 3, 2014, Drake, along with former Technical Director of the NSA William Binney, gave testimony to a German parliamentary committee investigating the NSA spying scandal. He described the close cooperation between the NSA and the German secret service BND.

Julian Assange, (1971-) is an Australian editor, activist, publisher and journalist. In 2006, he founded WikiLeaks, which publishes Individuals have international duties which transcend the national obligations of obedience. Therefore individual citizens have the duty to violate domestic laws to prevent crimes against peace and humanity from occurring.

— Declaration of the Nuremberg War Crimes Tribunal submissions of secret information, news leaks and classified media from anonymous news sources and whistleblowers.

On 15 September 2014, Assange appeared via remote video link on Kim Dotcom’s Moment of Truth town hall meeting held in Auckland.

A Swedish court on Nov. 20, 2014, upheld a four-year-old order for the detention of Assange over accusations of sexual assault that inspired a lengthy legal battle before he took refuge in the Ecuadorean Embassy in London.

John Kiriakou, Central Intelligence Agency
The one person who is in jail for the CIA torture is the man who tried to stop it.

In an interview to ABC News on December 10, CIA officer Kiriakou disclosed that the agency waterboarded detainees and that this constituted torture. He was convicted of releasing classified information and sentenced, on January 25, 2013, to 30 months’ imprisonment. Having served the first months of his service he wrote an open letter describing the inhuman circumstances at the correction facility.

And frankly, patriotism without self-awareness is way too much like white supremacy or Justin Bieber fandom for my taste.

Chelsea Manning (formerly Bradley Manning)

US Army intelligence analyst who released the largest set of classified documents ever, mostly published by WikiLeaks and their media partners. The material included videos of the July 12, 2007 Baghdad airstrike and the 2009 Granai airstrike in Afghanistan; 250,000 United States diplomatic cables; and 500,000 Army reports that came to be known as the Iraq War logs and Afghan War logs. Manning was convicted of violating the Espionage Act and other offenses and sentenced to 35 years in prison.

In 2014, Chelsea Manning was awarded the Sam Adams Award by Sam Adams Associates for Integrity in Intelligence, a group of retired CIA officers. It is named after Samuel A. Adams, a CIA whistleblower during the Vietnam War, and takes the physical form of a “corner-brightener candlestick.”[2]

The Sam Adams Award is given annually to an intelligence professional who has taken a stand for integrity and ethics.

Icelandic and Swedish Pirate Party MPs nominated Manning and fellow whistleblower Edward Snowden for the 2014 Nobel Peace Prize. In a statement to the Nomination Committee, the Pirate Party members said Manning and Snowden “have inspired change and encouraged public debate and policy changes that contributed to a more stable and peaceful world.”

Edward Snowden, National Security Agency

Booz Allen Hamilton contractor Snowden released classified material on -top-secret NSA programs including the PRISM surveillance program to The Guardian and The Washington Post in June 2013.

In May 2014, U.S. officials released a single email that Snowden had written in April 2013 inquiring about legal authorities, but said that they had found no other evidence that Snowden had expressed his concerns to someone in an oversight position. In June 2014, the NSA said it had not been able to find any records of Snowden raising internal complaints about the agency’s operations. That same month, Snowden explained that he himself has not produced the communiqués in question because of the ongoing nature of the dispute, disclosing for the first time that “I am working with the NSA in regard to these records and we’re going back and forth, so I don’t want to reveal everything that will come out.”

In his May 2014 interview with NBC News, Snowden accused the U.S. government of trying to use one position here or there in his career to distract from the totality of his experience, downplaying him as a “low level analyst.” In his words, he was “trained as a spy in the traditional sense of the word that I lived and worked undercover overseas—pretending to work in a job that I’m not—and even being assigned a name that was not mine.” He said he’d worked for the NSA undercover overseas, and for the DIA had developed sources and methods to keep information and people secure “in the most hostile and dangerous environments around the world. So when they say I’m a low-level systems administrator, that I don’t know what I’m talking about, I’d say it’s somewhat misleading.”

In a June interview with Globo TV, Snowden reiterated that he “was actually functioning at a very senior level.”

In the Obama administration’s attempt to crush these young whistleblowers with espionage charges, the U.S. government is taking on a generation, a young generation of people who find the mass violation of the rights of privacy and open process unacceptable. In taking on the generation, the Obama administration can only lose.

— Julian Assange
In a July interview with The Guardian, Snowden explained that, during his NSA career, “I began to move from merely overseeing these systems to actively directing their use. Many people don’t understand that I was actually an analyst and I designated individuals and groups for targeting.” Snowden subsequently told Wired that while at Dell in 2011, “I would sit down with the CIO of the CIA, the CTO of the CIA, the chiefs of all the technical branches. They would tell me their hardest technology problems, and it was my job to come up with a way to fix them.”

Alternative Christmas Message

Snowden was chosen to give Britain’s 2013 “Alternative Christmas Message,” Channel 4’s alternative to the Royal Christmas Message by Queen Elizabeth II. The Message is normally given by non-establishment figures. In what was Snowden’s first television appearance since arriving in Russia, the address focused on the importance of privacy and the need for an end to government surveillance. In the 1.5-minute segment he said that the recently revealed “worldwide mass surveillance,” a system resulting from teamwork between governments, the danger of which George Orwell warned in Nineteen Eighty-Four, a novel about a society controlled by an ever-present Big Brother. The difference is, Snowden noted, that today’s surveillance capabilities far surpass those Orwell described, saying “We have sensors in our pockets that track us everywhere we go … A child born today [will] never know what it means to have a private moment to themselves, an unrecorded, un-analyzed thought. That’s a problem because privacy matters; [it] allows us to determine who we are, and who we want to be.”

The piece was filmed, edited and produced by Laura Poitras.

Rector of the University of Glasgow

On February 18, 2014, Snowden was elected as Rector of the University of Glasgow, a position widely described as symbolic. Snowden became the first American Rector in the position’s 366-year history. Snowden beat three competitors and received over half of the 6,560 votes. The nomination was arranged by a group of Glasgow University students along with the help of Snowden’s lawyer. Snowden was officially installed on April 23. Like past rector Winnie Mandela, Snowden will not visit the campus in person and will not be expected to fulfill his duties as rector, a job which involves representing student issues to senior management. He will serve for three years.

German “positive” Big Brother Award

At the German Big Brother Awards gala on April 11, 2014, Edward Snowden was honored with the first-ever “positive” award, named the “Julia and Winston Award” after the two main rebellious characters in George Orwell’s Nineteen Eighty-Four. The award was endowed with one million stickers calling on the German government to grant asylum to Edward Snowden. The award’s organizers, Digitalcourage, made the stickers available for free online orders to enable the public to distribute the stickers throughout Germany.

Ridenhour Truth-Telling Prize

In April 2014 Snowden, together with Laura Poitras, was awarded the Ridenhour Truth-Telling Prize, given by The Nation Institute and The Fertel Foundation for transparency and whistleblowing. Snowden and Poitras each appeared on video at the National Press Club to accept the award. Snowden gave a speech and took questions from the audience, who according to The Nation greeted him with “numerous standing ovations.” During his speech, he questioned why James Clapper had not been reprimanded for his “famous lie,” whereas charges were filed against Snowden soon after going public as the source of the NSA leaks. He said, “When I began this, I never expected to receive the level of support that I did from the public. Having seen what happened to the people that came before, specifically Thomas Drake, it was an intimidating thing.”

Right Livelihood Award

In December 2014, Snowden shared a Joint Honorary Award with Alan Rusbridger, editor of The Guardian, from Sweden’s nonofficial Right Livelihood Award Foundation.

The Right Livelihood Award is an international award to “honor and support those offering practical and exemplary answers to the most urgent challenges facing us today.” The prize was established in 1980 by German-Swedish philanthropist Jakob von Uexkull, and is presented annually in early December.

An international jury, invited by the five regular Right Livelihood Award board members, decides the awards in such fields as environmental protection, human rights, sustainable development, health, education, and peace. The prize money of 200,000 Euros is shared among the winners, usually numbering four. Very often one of the four laureates receives an honorary award, which means that the other three share the prize money.

It is promoted as an “Alternative Nobel Prize,” but does not have any organizational ties to the awarding institutions of the Nobel Prize or the Nobel Foundation.

On December 10th, in response to the CIA torture report, Snowden told Amnesty International via a Paris-Moscow video link, “The world cannot accept efficiency as an excuse for what is essentially ‘criminal behavior’ on the part of the CIA.”

Snowden, who still resides in Russia under an asylum request, told Amnesty International that morality cannot be tossed aside for the sake of so-called “efficiency” when it comes to the activities of the CIA.

“A government could say that rape has a positive effect because we have a declining demographic crisis in the country... Efficiency has no place in the debate about right and wrong,” Snowden said, agreeing to the question about whether the US is in deep moral crisis.

“Individuals actually lost their lives – they died – after being chained to a concrete floor in an unheated room, half naked. And rather than having the officer who ordered that behavior be prosecuted, he actually received a monetary bonus from the CIA of $2,500. These are things that leave a stain on the moral authority of the US government,” he said.

SEASON'S GREETINGS AND WISHES FOR PEACE AND HARMONY IN THE NEW YEAR!

Paul and Marihelen Wheeler
The Gestalt Center
For the second year, the Gainesville community joined thousands of communities around the world to celebrate the International Day of Peace on September 21st. Since the day fell on a Sunday this year, the celebration included a service at the local Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Gainesville along with a peace march which joined with the climate march happening around the world on the same day.

Vets for Peace combined forces with the Unitarians, members of the local Baha’i chapter who led the climate portion of the march, and with the United Nations Association of Gainesville. After the march and peace service everyone gathered in the memorial garden behind the church for a flag ceremony led by VFP member Bill Hutchinson. Thirty-five countries, plus flags representing the Earth itself in honor of the climate march, were brought forward with flag carriers reciting the phrase “May Peace prevail on Earth.”

This ceremony has been performed around the world at noon on September 21st for over 30 years. The day ended with a potluck at which the climate march in New York City was streamed for those attending. And a great time was had by all.

Next year the International Day of Peace is on a Monday. The organizers of this event invite you to join VFP and our partners in peace to plan a celebration for 2015.

My feeling is that our leaders are not doing a great job in the arena of peacemaking so it is up to us.

— Renee Hoffinger

We had to struggle with the old enemies of peace: business and financial monopoly, speculation, reckless banking, class antagonism, sectionalism, war profiteering. They had begun to consider the Government of the United States as a mere appendage to their own affairs. We know now that Government by organized money is just as dangerous as Government by organized mob.

With the generous help of Gainesville Veterans for Peace, CodePINKgainesville was able to host CodePINK’s founder, Medea Benjamin, in November 2014. She gave three energizing talks during her visit and led a street demonstration and protest to Prioria Robotics, Gainesville spy-drone maker.

In her talk at Ustler Hall, UF, she inspired us with personal stories of taking numerous peace delegations to Gaza after the 2008 invasion, participating in the Freedom Flotillas. From the Egyptian uprising in Tahrir Square, to the human rights delegation in Bahrain, she has met and worked with powerful women around the world demanding peace and justice. She explained that after CIA Director John Brennan announced there were no innocent victims of U.S. drone strikes, she went to Pakistan and talked to innocent drone victims, recorded their stories, and upon return went to Brennan’s house to challenge him with her findings. She also directly questioned President Obama during his 2013 foreign policy address regarding innocent people killed by U.S. drone strikes. Medea’s UF talk was recorded by the Samuel Proctor Oral History Program and is available to view on YouTube.

Medea’s riveting new book, Drone Warfare, Killing by Remote Control, is a well-researched exposé of the explosion of drones in the past few years, the current manufacturers of weaponized and spy drones, and the moral issues associated with this newly weaponized technology. Even though these new weapons systems are frightening, Medea also inspires us with strategies to end perpetual war.

People should go where they are not supposed to go, say what they are not supposed to say, and STAY when they are told to leave.

— Howard Zinn
“Maximum security” is a prison, not a Utopia. - Deacon Duncan

On Friday morning, the Students for Justice in Palestine, along with the Mennonites hosted Medea in a discussion on the Palestinian-Israeli conflict. The SJP explained the current BDS (Boycott, Divest, Sanction) campaign and its influence on Congress. Each Congressperson is provided with an all-expenses-paid trip to Israel along with a host of other propaganda by AIPAC. The media’s lack of reporting was also a lively topic. SJP provided a Palestinian lunch.

Along with Vets for Peace, OccupY Gainesville and CodePink were about 50 strong marching from Main St. and University Ave. to Prioria Robotics (606 Depot Ave), where we sat down at Prioria’s entrance, sang, chanted and demanded a meeting with owner Brian da Frota. After 10 GDP officers arrived, da Frota said he would meet with Medea. He told her that Prioria makes spy drones for the U.S. military, including Special Forces, at $40,000 each, and they recently signed five new military contracts. Da Frota... explained he is also trying to sell his drones to law enforcement agencies but they currently do not have the resources and training. He explained, “The military is the only ones with money right now.”

After the protest, the CMC filled to capacity, promoted by Wild Iris Books and great food from the Samuel Proctor folks, where Medea gave an energizing account of the current global situation and her determination to end the violence and create a U.S. foreign policy that respects human rights. You can purchase Medea’s books at Wild Iris Bookstore. Her articles appear regularly in The Huffington Post, Common Dreams, Alternet, and OpEd News. Occupy Gainesville recorded the CMC talk.

CodePINK was formed in 2002. It is a women-initiated grassroots peace and social justice movement working to end U.S.-funded wars and occupations, to challenge militarism globally, and to redirect our resources into health care, education, green jobs and other life-affirming activities. You can join our local chapter on Facebook at CodePINKgainesville.

VFP Statement of Purpose:
We, having dutifully served our nation, do hereby affirm our greater responsibility to serve the cause of world peace. To this end we will work with others:
1) Toward increasing public awareness of the costs of war;
2) To restrain our government from intervening overtly or covertly in the internal affairs of other nations;
3) To end the arms race and to reduce and eventually eliminate nuclear weapons; and
4) To abolish war as an instrument of international policy.
To achieve these goals, members of VFP pledge to use non-violent means to maintain an organization that is both democratic and open with the understanding that all members are trusted to act in the best interests of the group for the larger purpose of world peace.

Support the people who support Veterans for Peace!

We’ve lost several sponsors in the last few years - not because they’ve given up on working for peace, but as a result of our kleptocratic war economy that preys on all of the 99%. So, please buy local whenever possible, and remember the good people and organizations who help out with the life-and-death issues that matter to us all.

ceremony plans were finalized while the mechanics of placing more than 6,000 tombstones by the roadside on Eighth Avenue Memorial Day weekend were also being hammered out. A work party produced 89 new tombstones to add to the more than 6,000 already displayed in years past. Work schedules for clean up and to crew the three booths along 8th Avenue were produced and peace poetry booklets and announcements were printed and food was prepared for the reception. May saw both of these events go off with few or no hitches due to the hard work of our volunteers, both chapter members and those of you from the community who participate each year. Thank you!

In June we met on a Saturday to clean and dry each tombstone before putting them away for the year. This prevents rusting and mold on tombstones that one wet year forced us to replace many tombstones at a cost of thousands of dollars. Over twenty members and friends put in a day together or took tombstones home to be cleaned. Thank you for all your work on this. You know who you are!

After a summer hiatus – during which some of our members attended the national Vets for Peace conference held in Asheville, North Carolina – we started out the fall season with an update on the Veterans Farm which had made improvements on the trails and done cleanup and maintenance on the building. They also received a $5,000 grant from the Home Depot Foundation with several vets who work at a Gainesville Home Depot helping to implement the grant. The chapter also sponsored the International Day of Peace along with several other peace groups in Gainesville.

As the year wound down Vets for Peace provided Students for a Democratic Society with money to attend their national convention and attended and provided financial support for activist and writer Medea Benjamin’s visit to Gainesville in November. Finally, 2015 may be our last year to do the Memorial Day display as the City is discussing plans to pave over the grassy areas along Eighth Avenue when we put our tombstones. Nationally, the chapter voted to support Project Renew which would clean up Agent Orange sites and remove unexploded ordnance in Vietnam. And so the fight for a more peaceful world goes on. We hope you will join us in the struggle in 2015 and beyond.

OF GAINESVILLE

All people share a moral responsibility to create peace. Mindful of both our rich heritage and our past failures to prevent war, and enriched by our present diversity of experience and perspective, we commit ourselves to a radically inclusive and transformative approach to peace.
